
Teacher Recognition

Each month one of our teachers is nominated for the Jill Costello Award at Rebecca Boone. Jill Costello motivated the women's crew team at the University of California, Berkeley, where she was the coxswain - the head and heart of the team. She used her knowledge of tides and winds to direct the boat, and her love of the sport to coach and encourage her teammates. She was diagnosed with Stage IV cancer in 2009; the team faced a future without the person who had guided it for so long. But Costello continued to inspire, blogging about her struggle, fighting hard to return to school, and even rejoining the team for the 2010 Pac-10 championship. Jill's story is one of remarkable strength and determination.

Every day at Rebecca Boone there are teachers who show great strength and determination to do what is right for all students, and many times they receive little to no recognition for this. If you know of a teacher who should be considered for this award, please let Dr. Schowe or Mrs. Orf know.

Grade cards will be sent home on January 12.

Jump Rope/Hoops for Heart

We are thrilled to share that our school is supporting the American Heart Association's Jump Rope/Hoops For Heart program! Our kick off assembly will be on January 27th at 9:15am in the gym. The Mount Hope Show Me Jumpers will be here to demonstrate some original and creative jump rope routines to our students. Our theme this year is: "Saving A Life Is A Real Sport". This is our 10th annual donation drive to help save lives and our goal is $10,000. We plan on collecting donations from January 27th – February 23. Our Jump Rope/Hoops For Heart event will be during your student's Physical Education class on February 22 and we would like to invite you on February 22 to spend 30 minutes with your child in PE.

Thank you for your support this year and previous years! Together we can save more lives!
